1. Since this line of code has "\\", this will create a comment and not actually output anything.
2. The code that has "print" will only output "This is lab 2." However, the code with "println" will produce the same thing but will move it to a new line.
3. There are not any difficult topics in these two exercises. I understand what "print" and what "println" does.